Letter from our President

Ann Lockhart

What a beautiful spring we are having! The board and I hope all of 2006 will be as beautiful for our unit.

As my first official act as president, I had the privilege of giving the Mini-McKenney and Ace of Clubs awards to our unit winners at the Raleigh Sectional. Kudos to all the winners! Congratulations to all of you – and to James Warren and Kay Joyce, who won the President's Cup. Hope to see your name on the list next year, but you must play to win.

A few things to remember:

The Goldsboro Sectional April 28–30. Silver points and lots of fun and good hospitality;

The Grand National Teams Semifinal, flights B and C, at 10:30AM, Saturday, April 15 at Sandhills Bridge Studio, Southern Pines, NC. If you have qualified at the club level, get your teams together and go play. It's one way to get some of your expenses defrayed for the NABC in Chicago.

The Tarheel Mid-Atlantic Memorial Day Regional, May 23–29, North Raleigh Hilton and Convention Center. Lots of points. Lots of fun. Please support our unit's regional tournament and do remember, if you are asked to help, please do so. Lots of hands make the job much easier. Of course, special thanks to John Marriott and all of his committee.

Hope to see everyone at Goldsboro. Until then, grand slams for all.

Bill and Warren

Barbara Ann Vinson

Bill Gates and Warren Buffet, the two richest men in America, have donated one million dollars to teach bridge in schools. They have hired Buffet's partner, Sharon Osberg (a world champion) to start a program to teach the game in junior high schools. Buffet thinks the game teaches all kinds of skills, including math, logical thinking, and social skills. He hopes to build competition between schools.

Gates thinks that bridge is a game where one can keep improving but can never learn it all. The program is modeled after an inner-city program that teaches chess and dance. The two millionaires think bridge is a superior experience because in bridge you have to work with someone else—your partner.

Buffet, who played 6,139 hands of bridge online last year, says that in bridge, “You have to understand your partner, to be tolerant, sympathetic, encouraging—skills that are not bad to have in life.”

Upcoming Tournaments*Grand National Teams

On Saturday, April 15, Sandhills Duplicate Bridge Studio will be holding the strats B and C semi-finals of the Grand National Teams. The games will begin at 10:30 AM, and Marie Killoran will be the director. You must have qualified in order to play in this event. Qualification is as an individual, so you do not have to play with the team you qualified with—you may form a new team if you wish.

The District 7 GNT finals will be held at the Morganton Spring Sectional May 5–7.

Goldsboro Sectional, April 28–30

This fun event will take place at the Lane Tree Country Club. Friday games are at 1:30pm and 7:30 pm, Saturday's games are at 10:30am and 3:30pm, and Sunday's Swiss team game starts at 10:30am. Contact Betty Wilkins by phone at 919.734.4882 or email bwilkins1@nc.rr.com. Host hotel is the Holiday Inn Express on N. Spence Ave. Ask for bridge rate of $59.00.

Unit Charity games

The unit is sponsoring Unit Charity games on May 3 and May 10. The Wallace DBC is the host site for both games, and the Sandhills Bridge Studio is a secondary site. Contact Lois Hall at 910.285.2405 for game times at the Village DBC, and Ray Fiorillo at 910.692.4186 for game times at the Sandhills Bridge Studio.

Raleigh Regional, May 23–29

We hope that you have already made your plans to attend the 2006 Tarheel Regional. In the event that you haven't, why are you waiting? If you come, you can expect to see a lot of familiar faces, play plenty of bridge at all hours of the day and night, eat meals at great restaurants, enjoy hospitality provided between sessions by members of the unit, enjoy museums and parks if you choose, munch on free late night food, sleep three or four hours a night, and just have a good time.

If you haven't been to a Mid-Atlantic Regional, you are missing a great opportunity to play with some of the best players in the world. Not only do many of them live in the area, but also we attract players from all over the country.

The Hilton has been a long time partner with us and continues to show their support by giving us a great host hotel at an outstanding rate ($70). We also have rooms blocked at Amerisuites for the same rate, but you need to make your reservations soon.

There are still some openings for caddies, particularly Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. If you or someone you know may be interested, please contact me.

Full information regarding the tournament is available on the web at www.tarheelregional.org, or www.mabcbridge.org, or you can link to it from the Unit 119 site. Thanks, and I hope to see you in Raleigh May 23–29.

With Mom's Help

Nancy Fiorillo

There are probably many players who can credit some bridge success to family members, but how many have achieved Life Master status with the help of their 93-year-old mother? I have!

I had been collecting a few points here and there for a number of years; but with a full time job, commuting, family, and other obligations, I never fully concentrated on the goal. By the winter of 2005, retirement was near and Life Master was a mere 15 points away!

I coaxed Mom into a Christmas visit—air travel from Boston to North Carolina isn't easy even for younger folks, but she agreed to make the trip. Mom is definitely a bridge player, but not a duplicate bridge player. She plays home-style bridge, as she calls it, and has only played at a duplicate club a handful of times, and only with me. We took every advantage to play at our local club (owned by my husband and me) and collected several points, which brought me closer to my goal.

A trip to the Williamsburg Regional secured the remaining points, including gold, and I can now proudly say I earned my Life Master with Mom's help!

Jargon

Barbara Ann Vinson

Every specialty has its own jargon. Doctors use words like stat; tennis players talk about love and deuce; ballet dancers plié.

Bridge is no exception. Onlookers would be puzzled by terms like vulnerable, take-out double, and trick. Partners bid to arrive at a contract. They try to make game or slam. They finesse for the king.

In duplicate bridge, the whole point is to do better with the same cards than anyone else. Hence, the name duplicate. The winners are said to be on top; the losers, on the bottom.

At a recent Christmas party, two players who wish to remain anonymous were discussing their lack of success at the bridge Christmas party.

One said to the other, "I saw where you were the other night."

"Yeah," replied the other. "On the bottom."

"Well, it suited me fine. It kept me from being on the bottom."

Suddenly, the two players noticed that nearby guests were staring at them strangely. Finally, one said, "Whatever are you two talking about?"

Blushing furiously, both declared at once, "Bridge, bridge; we're talking about bridge."

Greenville

The Greenville players announce some special games to be held by the Pirate Bridge Club. For those unfamiliar with the club, they play in the Willis Building lobby (corner of 1st and Reade streets) every Tuesday evening from 6:30 to 9:30ish. All games are sanctioned by ACBL, and approximately 21 boards are played each evening. All events are open to anyone wishing to play. The atmosphere is very relaxed, and the furniture/lighting is wonderful. Give them a try. For more information, contact Pa'l Hargittai or Chris Carolan.

Grand National Teams: On Saturday, April 15, we will be holding the semi-finals for B and C strats of the Grand National Teams. The games will begin at 10:30 AM, and Marie Killoran will be the Director.

You must have qualified in order to play in this event. Qualification is as an individual, so you do not have to play with the team you qualified with. You may form a new team if you wish.

Since this will occur on the 3rd Saturday we will schedule our April BAM for the 4th Saturday, April 22, at 7:30 PM.

We have also been asked to participate in the Unit 119 Charity games on May 3 and 10. Both of these games will be cost an extra $1.00 but will pay extra points. We will be sharing this event with the Duplin County Club.

Our recent sectional was very successful—great participation by our members and many coming from all over the state. Lots of master points were won by the home team! A great big thank you goes out to everyone who brought goodies or contributed to the hospitality fund. Our tradition of true southern hospitality lives on. A special thank you goes to Claire Michalowski for a superb job as partnership chair—she really works at pairing people up. Faye Gassaway was hospitality chair, and she kept the food table full and looking neat and tidy throughout the weekend.
